Books

Be Brave is for women who aspire to tap into their full potential in their lives, careers, business and community.

Ask yourself are you Brave enough to set goals intentionally, sever ties with those that are holding you back and compartmentalize your relationships so that you can tap into your next, your best, your place where you can say I am good enough?

Today you can collect all of your bargaining chips, you can stop short changing yourself and we can work together through this interactive workbook & journaling guide to build a new ladder that leads to whatever success is defined for you . The only requirement is that you Be BRAVE

Brave Vision - The second in the Be Brave Series builds the foundation on why Vision has nothing to do with what you see out of your eyes but what you perceive to see through your heart and mind.

Brave Vision is the act or power of sensing with the eyes but includes a wider range of visual abilities and other sensory skills. It is an instrument of divine communication. It can propose a revelation for direction or condition us by our moral ideals. You can have vision without being a visionary. Brave Vision speaks to the Snellen 20/20 ideology and begs to differ that Vision is not an Eye experience but an "I" experience, that both your heart and mind have to be set before you can see from any angle, any distance, from any perspective for anything. After this my prayer is that you can look in the mirror at yourself and say I See Me because I Saw Him first.

Bio

Khalilah Olokunola "KO" also known as PKO . The P is for Pastor , was born and raised in Brooklyn NY. She he spent much of her teens active on the streets of Brooklyn and Troy NY with what many view as the cities' most notorious street gangs—Bloods, Crips and Folks.

She eventually faced the consequences of her activities and lost her name for 4-years to a Department of Corrections number. Throughout it all, KO remained adamant about the importance of education in her life, and spent nights imagining the American dream she saw on TV. It didn't include a picket fence, but instead her dream was an opportunity to impact the lives of others.

That Impact included building a handful of businesses . Some of her past clients include Former Chairman of Monster Worldwide, Former president of Daimler Chrysler and other C-level executives, Pro Football players & movie production companies including Will Ferrell's HBO East bound & Down.

Khalilah held the position of chair of The New Hanover Commission For Women receiving an acknowledgement from the White House in 2011 for her work in reviving a defunct board during Women's history month.

KO has been sourced as an expert for News Channel 14, WWAY, FOX & WECT stories. She has been named a Woman to Watch by WILMA magazine & nominated for Women of Achievement award by the YWCA.

Khalilah attended college both in NYC & NC and has completed open coursework at M.I.T uLab & Harvard University on Entrepreneurship, Leading from the Emerging Future & Deliberations of Social Change . She holds additional certifications in Executive development| Workforce development | Peer counseling . Khalilah sold ABE in 2016 to follow her passion of developing people & systems professionally & personally.

Today KO is a leader in the marketplace & in ministry . She currently serves as Chief People Officer at TRU Colors , a for profit company with a closely knit social mission to unite gang rivals & decrease violence across the country . There she is the force behind defining a company culture that drives both personal and professional growth. She leads thought provoking conversations on second chance hires , paralleling block skills in the boardroom & unpacking racial justice and equity in business .

Khalilah is also an Author , Speaker , PePur (People + Purpose) Strategist and Impact Architect . She is passionate about building processes & systems that strategically align people to purpose, passion, position & profit .

She has been sourced as a speaker by individuals & organizations across the country. She has had the honor to speak to thousands providing insight , instruction, information & inspiration that can be collectively used to make impact in both your personal & professional life.

It's through a unique combination of formal classroom training, development activities & special projects that are reinforced with beyond the block experiences, that KO has strategically been able to architect sustainable systems that humanizes processes for purpose driven individuals & businesses where mission & money coexist , purpose & passion align , where people are prioritized and their potential is pushed out for intentional impact.

She shares these systems through workshops , live presentations, private events and online on a multitude of social platforms .

KO believes that Impact starts with being intentional .
